Work positioning: Safety, Tree Health, and Efficiency -- Sam Finco, Johanna O'Boyle

Work positioning is more than just our commute. It is our first line of defense in terms of safety and longevity for ourselves and the trees we work on. As arborists we need to consider the tree first when we prescribe pruning, therefore our work positioning becomes critical to prevent chronic and acute injuries to ourselves and the trees we work on

Presenter Bio –

Sam Finco is a Certified Arborist, Trainer, and Contract Climber with 12 years of experience. Having worked through a multitude of different positions, tree preservation, technical rigging

Johanna O'Boyle is the owner/operator of Ursa Minor Tree Care, as well as an instructor for the Wisconsin Arborist Apprenticeship. She has been climbing for eight years, both as a production and competition climber.